

Who would you be without your voice?

World Voice Day Celebration 2008

Join us to learn how to make your voice last a lifetime.

Sunday, April 6, 2:00–4:00 p.m.

Meymandi Concert Hall

Join host Grant Llewellyn, music director of the North Carolina Symphony, and the world-class specialists of the Duke Voice Care Center for a celebration of World Voice Day. This voice health fair will include:

- Information on how to care for your voice, with special tips for singers and other vocal performers, teachers, and clergy
- Interactive acoustic voice analysis
- Demonstration of video laryngeal imaging
- Vocal health screening
- Drawing for free North Carolina Symphony tickets

REGISTRATION: 919-681-4984

Thursday, April 17, 6:30–8:00 p.m.

Duke Raleigh Hospital

The Duke Voice Care Center's team of otolaryngologists, speech pathologists, and singing-voice specialist will give an educational presentation on how the voice works, preventive vocal care, and effective treatment options for voice disorders. Topics include:

- Special tips for singers, actors, and other performers
- Voice care for teachers
- The voice and aging
- Allergy and airway problems and the voice

REGISTRATION: 1-888-ASK-DUKE or dukeraleighhospital.org

FREE ADMISSION TO BOTH EVENTS. Refreshments will be provided. Space is limited.

Duke Voice Care Center

Where Everyone Has a Voice

Duke Raleigh Hospital

DUKE UNIVERSITY HEALTH SYSTEM