Duke Cancer Patient Support Program volunteers play a critical role in the day-to-day activities at the Duke Cancer Center. Volunteers provide conversation and comfort, offer refreshments, and help locate areas and resources in the clinics and hospital. If you wish to share your compassion and kindness in support of the Duke Cancer Patient Support Program’s mission, the possibilities for volunteers are endless.

- Become an Outpatient Volunteer and provide hospitality to patients and their families in outpatient clinics as they wait to see a physician or to receive treatment.
- Assist patients with self-image products, such as wigs, hats, and turbans as a Self-image Program Volunteer.
- Escort patients and families to the café, retail shop, clinics, and other areas of the Duke Cancer Center when you become a Docent Volunteer.
- Serve as a Patient Resource Volunteer and respond to walk-in and telephone requests from patients and families, help locate books and brochures, and conduct online literature searches.
- Visit patients and families in the oncology treatment center to provide refreshments and a listening ear by becoming a Hospitality Cart Volunteer.

“Getting to know each patient personally and allowing them to share, blesses and encourages me. Hopefully it blesses and encourages them in return.”
